"If any want to become my followers, let them deny themselves, and take up their cross and follow me."
(Mt 10:39)

Warm greetings to you and welcome to this week's letter and printed service. As the church year draws to a close it's not difficult to put a finger on the dominating issue of the last 12 months. Many people have wisely reduced their intake of Coronavirus news. Too much can be bad for your mental health. Most of us have been affected in some way, directly or indirectly. It is easy to become weary of it, and of the measures we need to take as a result. So as we move into a new church year there are a couple of things we need to be particularly mindful of - our care for others, and our approach to worship.

My experience is that as we went into lockdown in March it brought out the best in people. Ok, sometimes also the worst, but by and large people offered to help others, do errands with good grace, get to know their neighbours better, willing to go the extra mile. Thankfully much of this has continued but there is a risk that as some aspects of normality return these little acts of kindness tumble down our list of priorities. So let us ensure we make that phone call, take a moment to check on our neighbour, be prepared to change our plans to help someone out. God's kingdom is not, and has never been, restricted to church buildings, but is present wherever people are in need.

The other area we need to pay attention to is our approach to worship. While a few churches are starting to offer gathered worship again, it's not the same as before, may not be appropriate for some and won't be to everyone's taste. As a result it's easy to fall out of the habit of worshipping, and our faith will suffer accordingly. Ironically, there are exciting alternatives, especially online, on tv and the radio. The variety there far exceeds what has been available in our church buildings. Yet even in our South Warwickshire churches creativity is breaking out! Prayer is being offered at Radford Road, reflections at Dale St, there are daily prayers on zoom, a new garden of hope is taking shape at Kenilworth and, a particular favourite of mine, outdoor worship at Mickleton in the 3Bs garden. Praise be!

Trevor Pethick, Circuit Steward.
